

ABSTRACT

An intranet system for a financial service corporation has an interface application for accessing at least one internal data source and at least one external data source; and an authentication system for determining the data source a user is entitled to access, displaying the data source on the interface application and setting a user preference profile. The invention also includes a content management system for editing and updating a data source.

10

15

20

25

30

2925543.01

09/685924-101000